

home > events > oct 2011 > science, technology and medicine in east asia

September

October

November

December

January

February

March

April

May

Event Archives

Conference

Science, Technology and Medicine in East Asia: Policy, Practice, and Implications in a Global Context

Friday-Sunday, October 7-9, 2011

Mershon Center for International Security Studies

1501 Neil Ave., Columbus, OH 43201

Visit the official conference webpage

To attend this event, please visit the registration page.

Organizers

David Wittner, Utica College

David Blaylock, Eastern Kentucky University

Overview

Since the end of World War II, historical and contemporary developments in East Asian science, technology and medicine have received increasing scholarly attention partly due to historian of Japanese science James R. Bartholomew's career-long commitment to the field and his mentorship of a younger generation of scholars.

This interdisciplinary conference proposes to examine the ways in which the sciences in East Asia - whether basic or applied, from technology to medicine—have shaped and been shaped historically, and are being transformed in the contemporary world by political, economic, institutional, social, and cultural forces, both regional and global.

Program

View the conference program (pdf)

Sponsors

Co-sponsors of this conference include the Association for Asian Studies, North East Asia Council, Mershon Center for International Security Studies, Office of International Affairs, Department of History, East Asian Studies Center/Institute for Japanese Studies, and College of Arts and Humanities, as well as the Department of History at Eastern Kentucky University and Office of Institutional Advancement at Utica College.

© 2006-12 Mershon Center for International Security Studies

1501 Neil Ave.

Columbus, OH 43201

Phone: 614.292.1681

Fax: 614.292.2407

Email: mershoncenter@osu.edu
